Jason Randall Brumley

MAR 28, 1972 - AUG 22, 2020

On August 22, 2020, Jason Randall Brumley passed away peacefully at his home in Seabrook, TX at the age of 48. He was born on March 28, 1972 in Charleston, SC and grew up in Pasadena, TX. He graduated from Deer Park High School in 1990 and went on to get his Associates Degree in Computer Aided Drafting from San Jacinto College and began working at Pauluhn Sub-Sea Lighting Manufacturing Group. He also worked at Lift Aids in Houston helping with the modifications on accessible vehicles and at Otten Consulting as an accessibility consultant. He continued his education studying the Texas Accessibility Standards and became a registered specialist, obtaining his license in that field for the state starting his own business, TexasRas.com. Known as the "Accessibility Guy", he worked tirelessly as an advocate for those with special needs as an ADA consultant completing numerous accessibility inspections on businesses in the Houston area, including NRG Stadium and Minute Maid Park. He was proud of his participation in the television show, Extreme Makeover, to lend his expertise in accessibility standards for a home that was built for a family with several disabled children in Kemah, TX.

Jason was a dreamer and an achiever with an unmatched zest for life. He was born with many physical challenges from the birth defect Spina Bifida, but his powerful mindset and tenacity contradicted those limitations. He had many interests including music; attending nearly every KLOL event with Steven's and Pruitt where he was a VIP with backstage passes, meet and greet, crew passes and a favorite of every rock star fortunate enough to meet him. Houston music fans will remember Jason as one of the biggest ever fans of rock music. Some of his favorites were Motley Crüe, Van Halen, Sammy Hagar, Pantera, Sixx A.M., Journey, Ozzy Osborne and would attend concerts, not only in Houston, but all over the nation. He rocked with the best.

Obituary

Jason Randall Brumley

He never met a stranger and had many long-term friendships with band members over the years. Racing was another passion of his, in which he became immersed following his first Indy 500 race in 1992. You'd find him watching the races alongside the teams and other notable celebrities. Even riding tandem as an official Xtreme Racing team member on an occasion, which was a highlight in his life. He followed Danica Patrick and became good friends, not only with her, but her family. He would pack up his van and, many times, travel by himself all over the country following the Indy Car circuit where he was included in the award presentations and banquets.

Jason was a hero and inspiration in many ways; he never said "can't", instead he asked "how" because he knew all things are possible and proved that every day. Greeting each person with his unforgettable smile, he was always a pleasure to be around with his quick wit and sense of humor. He was also an extremely generous person, but above all, he was kind...with a heart of gold.

He is survived by his mother Glenda Cox, stepfather Richard Cox, sister Jessica Jones and nephew Wyatt Austin Jones, who he truly loved and adored. His aunt Patsy Watkins, his uncle Emmett Smith and many cousins: Rhonda Karim, Greg Perkins, Angie Roppolo, Misty Ladewig, Kim Mehne, Amanda Smith, Pam Alexander and an overwhelming number of friends. He is preceded in death by his beloved grandparents, Louis and Grace Muecke and his loving aunt Nancy Smith.

The family would like to extend their deepest gratitude to his friends Cheryl Stano, Vikki Johnson, Serena Goodwin, Tom Wood, Browning Williams, Sal Trevino, Mario Alvarado, and Raul Espino for always being by his side. Also, thanks to Dr. Zenithe Ware, Dr. Lawrence Nguyen, Dr. Timothy Boone and Dr. Farid Noie for providing outstanding medical care.

There's no way his life can be summed up in a few paragraphs, there is way too much! How do you describe Jason Brumley to someone who didn't know him? The only phrase that comes to mind.. "Hell on Wheels". For most of us, we didn't see Jason in a wheelchair, once you go to know him it was like it wasn't even there, except when you got in a little trouble. With Jason you tried to avoid trouble, especially when you knew you have to get his butt in the car, break down his wheelchair, get that in the car, and get out of dodge. Believe me, we tried it, sober at that. Don't take hell on wheels the wrong way, Jason never really got into trouble, maybe a predicament here or there, he was just trying to have a good time with his friends. He lived life on his own terms, fearless and headstrong. He was never afraid to speak his mind; you always knew where you stood with him. Jason had a deep love for his family and his nephew Wyatt, who he'd brag on in every conversation. He loved his friends and his passions like concerts and Indy racing, and was always looking for a way to go to the next event. He had such a big heart; never met a stranger and always greeted you with a smile, a laugh and maybe a witty taunt. Man did he love to joke and laugh. Finally, in all the years I knew him, I cannot recall hearing Jason complain about his disability, on the contrary, it worked to his advantage. If you had ever been to a concert with Jason, you have probably seen a beautiful girl, a complete stranger riding in his lap. "Why walk when you can ride". That was typical Jason. We love you and we will see you again my friend, until then, I will miss you.

I became friends with Jason in High School. We lived in the same cul-de-sac, and he was one of the first friends I made in Houston. I have SO many great memories of him...going to shows, listening to albums, watching movies, and just sitting around cutting up with him. We lost touch after High School, but had recently gotten back in touch thanks to Facebook. I had hoped we would have the opportunity to hang out again, but the pandemic nixed that. I hate that I missed out on so many years, but I will forever cherish the memories I have. He was fearless, funny, and loyal. Rest in Power, my friend. Heaven is a more rocking place with you in it!
