Bob and I had breakfast almost every weekend for at least 15 years. Our favorite places were the Golden Corral Buffet and Kelly's restaurant. We were almost always waiting outside for them to open on Saturday mornings and if they didn't open on time he was knockin on the door until they let us in. After he moved to the Courtyards home, I would pick up breakfast and meet him in the dining room. He always perked up as soon as he saw me, and I hardly had time to get the food out of the bag. We ate, we swapped stories and we had good times. I was humbled today when I met 2 of his sisters and they knew me by name because he had told them about our breakfasts. I am going to miss my breakfast buddy. Rest in peace old friend.
