For Donald I feel as if I should call the police..... We thought for certain if anyone would get us it would be COBBLEPOT. But this just wasn't Oswald's style. Donald was a man of Integrity, Grit, and sheer Drive. For the short period of time I had to spend with Donald, I couldn't have had a better father figure, mentor, and friend. Donald was the perfect example of giving. Every day he woke up, his mission before he laid down at night was to give his family everything he could give that day. That's a concept I was not always familiar with and never had a mentor figure show me before I met him. He was always family first, America second, and true to his upbringing. It's hard moving forward without you brother, but it would have been harder watching you fight any longer as we all lay helpless to your killer by the wayside. For those that new Donald, for any of us to be sentimental about this would be Treason!, lol. But to all of you who share in my grief, you all know that Donald will never leave our side even through death. Donald Lloyd Dixon, I love you like a Father and always will. I thank you eternally for all of the things you shared with me and taught me through our relationship. And I look forward to the day we see each other again. In the name of the Father, Son, and the Holy Spirit, in Jesus name we pray. Amen.
