I will always remember the great family gatherings and large meals that were almost endless. She made sure you didn't go hungry. Also the many smiles and laughs, even the holiday celebrations everyone always shared. Those memories will never be forgotten. I'm sorry I can't attend funerals, they are just too difficult for me because of my PTSD. My thoughts and prayers are with all the family and extended family and friends.

Arte and I were on our way to visit with Mom on Jan. 29, 2026 around noon when we received the call that she had passed away. I am still in disbelief that Mom is gone. We watched her decline for months. We knew this day was near but you are never really prepared for it. I am feeling numb and just trying to get through this week. I am going to miss her everyday for the rest of my life. I am going to be lost without her. I could not have asked for a better Mother. God surely blessed us with her. I am so thankful we had her for as long as we did. Mom was kind and loving and taught me so much. She taught me how to love and care for others. She taught me how to cook, clean, laugh and to have good work ethics. She taught me to be creative. (We crafted together and painted together). Some of the best times I had with her. I am going to miss our special times together. The movies, lunch, shopping and just the conversations we had. God how she could make me laugh. I am the person I am today because of her. She is all of my best qualities. Mom.... until we meet again! I love you now and always. Your baby girl, Jeanne

Our Aunt Joan was love, happiness, sweetness and faithfulness! As she raised their five children on meager wages, she kept herself and her little family always centered in her birth family. Food and family were shared with her two sisters, one brother and parents as each moved within their own lives, but always coming together for holidays and special occasions. With her passing I can only think of her now with my mother Fran, her twin Jean and our precious grandmother Lilly....I know there is laughter and love overflowing in their part of heaven! God grant you peaceful rest my precious aunt. As the oldest grandchild, I was blessed with a long life of learning and protection under your care.
