“ Dad you always made friends were ever you go. You were friendly and demanded respect all at the same time. You were such a wise person. You always thought it was wise to be quiet, observe than to be a fool. Something I told I wanted to be like you. You were not argumentative at all. You never took life seriously once again something I told you wanted to be like you. I asked you recently is it possible to become like you with such a calm demeanor. You said anything is possible . I remember one time giving you a greeting car for your birthday. I felt so bad because I couldn't give you more. You said, "It's quality over quantity. You did it with your heart." Dad there's so much I could say but dad I'll save all these words until the day I see you. Just know I'll be missing you so much! God blessed me a lot by letting me be your daughter. It was an honor sir.

“ My father always knew how to make me feel better. He always reminded me to be above it all and to kill people with kindness. In spite of many that hurt him he managed to forgive others. You would never hear anything negative come from him. He demonstrated to me how a man should treat a women. My heart has forever lost a piece of it. I hope to one day be a fraction of a person he was. I will forever love you Daddy, my Kike - I don't know how life can continue without you I will cherish your memory.
